Alma Mater

Let our hearts burst forth and tell thee, Meigs, our dear old school;
All thru life we'll sing thy praises,
how you taught the rule.

Meigs, dear Meigs, oh, how we love thee, love thy white and blue; You have been an inspiration with your lessons true.

When the years have gone before us,
we'll still sing thy song; We'll remember what you've taught us when our hearts were young.

1966 MAVERON

*Meigs High School
Nashville, Tennessee*

"Let all hearts burst forth and tell thee
Meigs Our Dear Old School"

Within the pages which follow will unfold a drama--a story of our lives. Within the boundaries of this volume, one will follow the growth of a being. Our hearts overflow with thoughts, ideas, and memories which we seek to express, both verbally and pictorially.

"When the years have gone before us
We'll still sing thy song"

A melody rings within us. It is a song of joy, hope, disappointments, hard work and pleasure. Its verses are filled with memories of our classmates, our teachers, and our parents. Its refrain reminds us that even though we are at a higher level in our educational achievements, "the hills have only been reached, and the mountains lay bold before us."

We cherish the time that we have spent here at Meigs and hope that though this annual, you too, may feel that ray of joy that has kept us growing.

"Meigs,

You have been an inspiration with your lessons, true."

A TRIBUTE

A poet expresses his feelings in his poems, the song writer in his songs, and we, the Senior Class of '66, express our feelings by paying tribute in our yearbook to a grand lady.

Not every woman is called a grand lady, but OUR LADY is! Not every woman is so missed, but OUR LADY is! Not every woman is so lovingly looked upon by so many young people and adults alike, but OUR LADY is!

We are sure the poets and songwriters must, at sometime, have trouble with expression. We, too, have this problem. For in honoring so fine a person, the needed words are in absence. We know, however, that along with the memories of our senior days, will forever be, the memories of OUR LADY. So, the Senior Class of 1966, with unreserved proudness and admiration uses this medium to honor MRS. LILLIE DRAKE BOWMAN.
